

Final Exercises Held Saturday For the Children at St. Ursula's

Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, a large assembly of parents and friends in the auditorium at Marygrove, the elementary department of the Academy of St. Ursula held its excellent closing program, followed by the distribution of awards.

The program opened with a piano solo, "Aragonaise," by Massenet, played by Miss Amelia Altamari, who, in this and subsequent offerings, displayed a talent far beyond the average even for someone twice beyond her age. Miss Altamari's interpretation, her zest and delicacy and her ability for poetic color mark her as one with rare talent.

This was followed by a recitative group, "Our Little Ones at Play," given by the Kindergarten class and featured by two pieces spoken by Master Peter Gannon, four years old, whose tales, "The Mice" and "The Little Elf," delighted the audience greatly. Master Gannon's deliberate and round-mouthed enunciations carried to the farthest corner of the auditorium and won him long applause. This was followed by an ensemble recitation, "Going to China." This selection, so admirably staged as to give the effect of a group of children conceiving their own game in spontaneous play, proved the mastery of the teachers in training children.

Next Miss Jeanne Marie de la Vergne pleased her audience with a piano solo, "A Little Song of Italy," by Bartorio. This was followed by a piano duet, "Album Leaf," by Kirchner, played by the Misses Barbara Dave and Amelia Altamari.

A chorus, "Run, Little Rivulet," Run," by Larcom, was sung by a group and was followed by a recitation, "The Name of Old Glory," by James Whitcomb Riley, given by a class of older girls.

The Misses Dolores Donlon and Betty Ruzzo gave Behrs' "Schneeglockchen," as a piano duet, a selection very well given.

A group recitation, "La Ronda des Fleurs," "Bob White" and a "Butterfly Dance," gave great color and rhythmic precision in all three sections.

"The Angelus," by Gounod, was then played as a piano duet by the Misses Marion Gage and Margaret Feye and was generously applauded.

A succeeding group was "Le Poulet et le Renard" and "Abou Ben Adhem" was recited and then a piano duet, "Sunshine," by Esposito, played by the Misses de la Vergne and Amelia Altamari.

"Les Petites Luttières" was given very well by a class of the older girls. Then Miss Amelia Altamari played Mendelssohn's "Spinning Song" as her final solo appearance.

Perhaps the most colorful number on the afternoon's program was "A Little Minuet," done by smaller children with a grace and an utter self-consciousness which evoked both applause and much laughter from those present.

An excellent feature of the number was the beautiful costumed as enhanced by the soft lighting effects.

Following a chorus, "Our Queen," given well by a class of the older girls, Mother Marie Celestine, head of the primary department, announced the distribution of prizes which were given to the winners by the Very Rev. Dean John J. Stanley, who at the completion of awards, spoke briefly and humorously to the children and advised them to play well, eat and sleep well, and give now and then a thought to the re-opening of the Academy on September 14.

Worthy of special mention is the beautiful manner in which the stage was decorated by the Sisters of the Academy, with roses and other flowers set as a bower above the statue of the Blessed Mother holding the Christ Child.

The prizes awarded to the pupils are as follows:

A First Honorable Mention is presented to those obtaining an average between 90 and 100 per cent. A Second Honorable Mention, to those obtaining an average between 85 and 90 per cent.

In the Third Junior Class, to Miss Barbara Dave: 1st Hon. Mention in Spelling, French and Music. 2nd Hon. Mention in Bible History.

Miss Margaret Garavan: 1st Hon. Men. Spelling; 2nd Hon. Men. Christian Doctrine, History, Penmanship.

Miss Genevieve Judge: 1st Hon. Men. Geography; 2nd Hon. Men. History, Drawing.

Miss Bernice Nolan: 1st Hon. Men. French, Penmanship; 2nd Hon. Men. Spelling.

In the Second Junior Class, a medal of honor for Excellence in Studies is awarded to Miss Jane Holcombe.

Miss Patricia McCabe: 1st Hon. Men. Christian Doctrine, English, Spelling, Geography and French.

2nd Hon. Men. Arithmetic, History, Drawing.

Miss Constance Savagay: 1st Hon.

young people. The challenge to her is the challenge to you.

"Who knoweth whether thou art not come to the kingdom for such a time as this?"

Verily, just as Esther was called to the kingdom for her time so you and youth throughout the country are called to the kingdom for such a time as this. And what a time it is.

Consider your opportunity, your responsibility along side of Esther's.

Look to the many vital issues crying for solution. Starting you full in the face in the liquor issue. Drunken driving is a terrible menace today.

The saloon is back. The bootlegger furnishes Crime waves ominously.

There is the social and economic issue. All is not well between capital and labor. Ten million men cannot find work. Pigs are burned while people cry for pork. The few sleep on silk pillows while the many struggle with insomnia in smelly slums. There is the movie issue.

To be sure, moving pictures are much better today than they have been but he who maintains that all is well has the mentality of a moron.

It is a great abundance of filthiest kind of slush is being poured before our eyes.

Calvin disregards criticism. I am not speaking here of constructive criticism. To that you will always want to give a sympathetic ear.

Rather I am speaking of carping criticism. Verily, if you step out and serve your day and generation, people will call you names, beamish your character and pester you day and night. But don't be felled by it.

Calmly disregard it, look it full in the face and march right on. I would recommend this motto of a great Englishman: "Never explain, never retract, never apologize, get it done and let them howl."

Personal living religion. As you need food for your body so you need food for your soul. Along with earthly companionship you need a heavenly companionship.

Among many young people today it is considered smart to snif and sneer at religion.

They say it is childlike something to be outgrown like knee trousers and dolls. But do not be so easily fooled. Listen rather to Charles E. Steinmetz, the world's greatest research scientist: "Some day people will learn that material things do not bring happiness and are of little use in making men and women creative and powerful. Then the scientists will turn their laboratories over to a study of God and prayer and to spiritual forces. When this day comes the world will see more advancement in one generation than it has seen in the past four."

That is how important religion is. In recommending it to you, frankly, this is what I mean. (1) Read the Bible. (2) Pray with all your energy. (3) Have faith in God. (4) Live in the constant companionship of Jesus Christ. Young people, for such a time as this Jesus Christ is the one adequate complete answer. Do not miss out on Him.

This is an earnest matter that demands your immediate decision. You have the chance of a life-time, an opportunity as great as Esther's. Decide now to accept this opportunity to be fully equipped.

"... thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this."

It will be the greatest regret of the ages if youth does not successfully meet this opportunity.

If young people are to measure up as did Esther they will have to be properly equipped. Some of the characteristics which your students will have to possess are these: (1) Initiative. You will have to be a self-starter. Out in the wicked, wild world things are not handed to you on a silver platter. You will have to dig for yourself. That requires initiative. Some years ago two young American lads found themselves in the midst of their college course at Leiden Stanford University without money to continue their studies. Pondering a possible way out, one of them got the idea of sponsoring a great concert in the town. He noticed that Paderewski, the celebrated pianist, was in America and thought that he might be engaged for a concert, and thus earn for them enough money to continue their studies. The two young men set to work. They communicated with Paderewski, who agreed to come to the concert and to pay the expenses.

LAND INVENTORY.

Nations are growing self-conscious about their land, as their biggest and most durable asset. Several countries besides our own are making careful surveys to determine soil values, drainage requirements, erosion dangers, needed forestation, and so on.

The most picturesque undertaking of this sort is in England, where there is in course of preparation a new "Domesday Book," corresponding to the original project of William the Conqueror completed in the year 1086. The present work, however, is more complete than William's. It will show every acre. As the Land Utilization Survey proudly explains, the first Domesday Book filled only two volumes, and this one, of which the first volume has just been published, will fill 87 volumes.

There is another difference, too. William was checking up his own property for purposes of taxation, or rent-collection. In theory, and largely in practice, he was the universal landlord. Now it is the people, through their own representative government, gathering valuable information about their property for their own benefit.

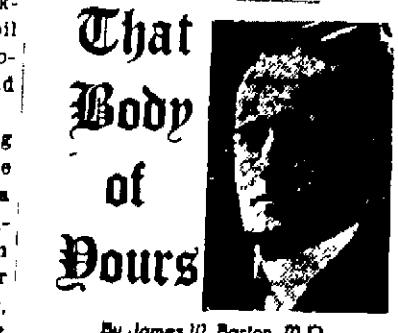

HATS—ON OR OFF

Some deliver into old laws reports that in 1777 the town of Brookfield, Mass., voted to allow men to wear hats at all times except when publicly speaking at town meeting. When or why this liberty was surrendered the writer is not prepared to state. But the ancient law ought to encourage the recently organized Association for Keeping Hats on in Elevators. Is there not simple solution to this problem of men's hats? Elevators in office buildings are in the same class with street cars or other public conveyances, and men ought to be able to keep their hats on in the presence of women without guilty consciences.

The whole question might settle itself if the young men's habit of going without hats were to spread. This would be hard on hatters, but it would end a lot of mental worry in other groups. A more serious problem is presented by men's hats. No hard and fast rule will work here. Sometimes a small, close-fitting hat is found in those who had been ill-recently with influenza, tonsillitis, or other ailment.

In Dr. Lempiere's opinion, "the schoolboy's heart was as elastic as his stomach." The danger in games or athletics lies in boys running or playing competitive games while suffering with a feverish cold or too soon after an acute illness, such as influenza or scarlet fever. The poisons from these ailments may exist in the system for a long time after the illness has passed away.

Careful supervision, allowing no running or games for a considerable time after any illness will prevent heart strain in athletics.

GAMES AND ATHLETICS.

Parents wish their children to play and when the children grow up they like to see them playing in organized games. They know that the playing strengthens the heart and lungs and they likewise know that team play begets self control and unselfishness.

However parents are naturally anxious regarding the effect of hard games on the heart, and breathe a sigh of relief when the football, hockey, and basketball seasons are over.

What about exercise and the heart in growing boys and girls, and in young men and women? Is there likely to be any ill effects in later life from indulging in games during youth?

As far back as 1869 Prof. J. E. Morgan, London, began an exhaustive study of the after-health of all those, some 294 in number, who had rowed in the University Boat Race between 1829-1869, 17 of whom believed they had suffered from ill-effect. The investigation clearly proved that the number of men so injured was surprisingly small. Further investigations have been made at different periods since that time, the latest being that conducted in 1930 by Dr. L. R. Lempiere and reported in the Lancet.

Reinforcing his own experience with that of 30 other medical officers, embracing 16,000 boys covering a period of from 10 to 30 years we learn that the evidence fully bears out what is believed to be the experience of those now doing school medical work, namely that given proper supervision heart strain other than a temporary enlargement, is practically unknown. This temporary deviation or enlargement was made at different periods since that time, the latest being that conducted in 1930 by Dr. L. R. Lempiere and reported in the Lancet.

"My wife's an angel," said Bobby Young.
"What sort of a wife have you?"
"Oh, mine's still living," said Mr. Stung.
And I suppose she'll have to do."

Jennington—Mr. Jones left his umbrella again. I do believe he'd lose his head if it were loose.

Reddington—I dare say you're right. I heard him say only yesterday that he was going to Colorado for his lungs.

Of course, education has played an important part in our government, especially in the past few years. People who only two or three years ago hesitated to request a few thousand dollars now are smart enough to ask for millions.

Dot—Why did you leave your secretarial position?

Bud—Because the boss always wanted to kiss me.

Dot—Well, I'm glad you wouldn't permit such a thing.

Bea—he had such a horrid mustache.

Correct This Sentence. As the chaplain prayed every member of Congress determined in his own mind that he would be guided in future by his sense of right, rather than politics.

Woman—My husband has taken all the cash out of baby's money box!

Neighbor—My dear! That's terrible.

Woman—Yes, and just when there was nearly enough for the new fall hat I wanted so badly.

Speaking of the fellow who has a big future cut out for him, how about Mr. American Taxpayer?

Rufus—Come on—let's go to the movies!

Goodfus—Go 'way from me. I'm busy. I got this here mail-order catalog to read through and all I got is one day more. On the wrapper it said: "Return in five days"—and tomorrow's the last day.

Life's a mirror; if you smile, Smiles come back to greet you. If you're frowning all the while Frowns forever meet you.

MODENA

Modena, June 20—Special services commemorating Father's Day will be held Sunday, June 21, in the Modena Methodist Church.

Monday evening, June 22, the Epworth League unit of the Modena Methodist Church will conduct an out-door meeting at the Conklin picnic grove, north of Modena village. At the conclusion of the devotional service a business meeting and "welshie" roast will be held.

Emil Rode, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rode of this village, is one of the graduates of the New Paltz Normal School class of '36.

Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Mackay entertained callers at their home Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hartney spent Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Burton Ward.

board of visitors, the faculty and the class of graduates of 1926. The invocation was given by the Rev. Christopher B. McCann. "Festival Overture," Otis Taylor, Normal School Band. Introduction, Principal Lawrence H. Van den Berg. Valadictory, M. Louise Travis. Delta Kappa awards, Dr. Lawrence H. Van den Berg. Greetings, Hon. G. D. B. Hasbrouck of Kingston, president of the local board of visitors.

"Enchantment," Barnes, and "I Love Life," Mana-Zucca, sung by the Normal School Glee Club, led by Miss Jennie Lee Dann.

Presentation of the portrait of Dr. Lawrence H. Van den Berg by the classes of 1935-1936-1937.

Those to take part in this were Maxwell Bastian, who represented the class of 1935; Alfred Demarest, the class of 1936, and Shirley Pearson for the class of 1937. Mr. Demarest made the presentation speech to which Hon. G. D. B. Hasbrouck responded with thanks in behalf of the board and school. Address to the graduating class, Hon. John Lord O'Brien, chairman of the teacher training and education committee, New York State Board of Regents. Presentation of diplomas, Dr. Frank P. Graves, state commissioner of education. Dr. Graves made very fitting and interesting remarks before presenting the diplomas to the graduates, who marched from their seats in the front of the auditorium to the stage which formed a line in the front of the auditorium through the entrance over the stage out through the right. Benediction, Rev. Christopher B. McCann of New Paltz. Recessional, Normal School Band. Line of march led by the class of 1936.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, June 20—There will be a special Father's Day service in the M. E. Church at 10:45 a. m. on Sunday. The Rev. Orson Rice will give the sermon.

On Friday evening, June 26, in the M. E. Hall will be a meat loaf supper, held by the M. E. Church. The supper will begin at 6 o'clock and continue until all are served.

At last week's meeting of the Ulster County Artist Union the new constitution was formally adopted and a definite membership formed.

Officers elected were Carlton Brown, executive secretary; Lila Nichols, recording secretary; John Bentley, treasurer.

The Sawkill Gallery plans to continue its present show of low priced drawings and water colors for another week, because of its popularity up to the present date.

The first one-man show, opening on June 27, will be devoted to the work of George Franklin, marine artist.

An artist's carnival will be held on July 4 at the Zena Fair Grounds.

This will be in keeping with the spirit which has prompted a carnival every summer here for many years. This year the carnival will be under the management of the Sawkill Painters and Sculptors.

On The Radio Day By Day

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

Time Is Daylight Saving.

New York, June 22 (P)—Five days of broadcasting from the Democratic Convention at Philadelphia will be started tomorrow with all stations of the four network groups, NBC, CBS, MBS and Intercity, hooked onto the assembly hall microphone system. Broadcast of the opening session is scheduled to begin at approximately 12:30 p.m., a half hour before official gavel time. That will be continued as long as the delegates are meeting, to be followed by a night broadcast of the keynote address of Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky. This is set for 10 o'clock. In addition, there will be other periods for comment and guest speakers, all of which have been arranged to fit in with the convention schedule. Starting Wednesday morning on NBC there will be a series of breakfast conferences by women delegates, with Sec. of Labor Davis as the first speaker.

The networks are announcing that the programs for July 4 will contain the address of President Roosevelt at Monticello, Va., ancestral home of Thomas Jefferson. It is expected to start at 11 a.m. Tonight's Poughkeepsie regatta is to be described by WOR-MBS from 8 on, with a resume by WABC-CBS at 12.

HOUSE PAGES CELEBRATE ADJOURNMENT

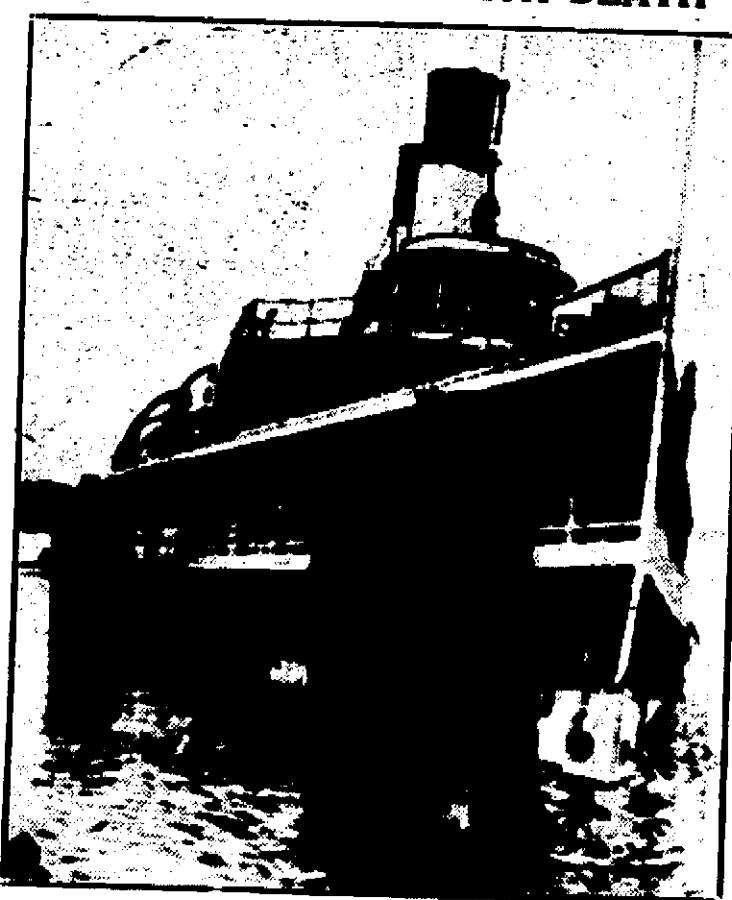

Adjournment of the 74th congress brought joy to pages in the house of representatives who looked forward eagerly to a long holiday. They're shown dashing down the steps of the capitol in their exuberance. (Associated Press Photo)

DIES ON GALLOWS FOR KIDNAPING

In the early morning hours just after dawn, Arthur Gooch went to his death on the gallows at the Oklahoma state prison at McAlester for kidnapping two officers, the first man to be executed under the Lindbergh law. Rich Owen, the hangman, is managing Gooch's feet. At the left are two U. S. deputy marshals and to the right is Prison Chaplain E. S. Priest. (Associated Press Photo)

SHIP WINS RACE WITH DEATH

White 1,400 passengers denied to music of a swing band, the exposition steamer Tasmania won a race with death after ramming a rock in the Detroit river during a moonlight cruise. Shortly after reaching dock at Amherstburg, Ont., the ship began sinking in 18 feet of water, submerging the lower deck, but leaving the upper deck and pilot house.

Events Around

The Empire State

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 22 (P)—Recovering from an attack of nervous indigestion, Judge John E. Mack prepared today to leave for the Democratic National Convention at Philadelphia where he will nominate President Roosevelt for a second term.

Judge Mack suffered the attack Friday night. It was said at his home that the illness would not keep him from the convention. He hopes to leave tomorrow.

Schenectady, N. Y., June 22 (P)—An electric "nose" which detects deadly mercury fumes, has been developed by Dr. C. W. Hewlett, a research engineer here (General Electric). Dr. Gordon said the "nose" can detect one part of poisonous mercury vapor in 200 million parts of air, although the vapor is without odor to human nostrils.

Washington, June 22 (P)—Franklin C. Haven, of Brooklyn, governor of the New York district, led a large delegation of New York Kiwanians to the 20th annual convention of Kiwanis International opening here today. More than 5,000 delegates and visitors from the United States and Canada were slated to attend the four-day meeting.

Rochester, N. Y., June 22 (P)—Fresh paint, recently applied to an electric power line tower was blamed today for the death of five cows in a pasture near here. The owner said marks on the tower showed where the paint had been licked off and red flecks were found in the mouths of all the dead animals.

Oneida, N. Y., June 22 (P)—Anthony P. Munroe, 75, banker here more than half a century, died suddenly at his home after a heart attack.

Brewster, N. Y., June 22 (P)—Coroner Robert S. Cleaver planned an inquest Friday into the death of Mrs. Mary P. Dayton, 29, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., who was found on the Patterson road near here fatally injured with a fractured skull. Motorists took her to a hospital at Danbury, Conn., where she died. Sergeant Irving Jagoda of the state police, said troopers were investigating the accident which happened Saturday night. He declined to discuss details of the case until after the inquest.
